Jennifer Gish is an associate attorney working in a variety of practice areas, including civil litigation, banking and business law. She is dedicated to working with each client to find the best possible outcome for their unique situation.

Jennifer is a graduate of Mitchell Hamline School of Law. While her main focus was on academics, she also spent time volunteering at Southern Minnesota Regional Legal Services, participating in dissolution and wills clinics in Mankato, Waseca and St. Paul. Jennifer also volunteered at WATCH, where she monitored court hearings about violence against women and children. She graduated cum laude from the University of St. Thomas with a Bachelor of Arts in Business with a Legal Emphasis and a minor in English.

Jennifer grew up working for her parents' electrical business between Mankato and St. Peter, spending time in the shop with her family and at a variety of jobsites. She still works for them in her spare time and also enjoys crocheting, reading and cooking.
